

Gifts & Abilities Reading

name -date

Full Reading Below

Prelude

Hello (name)! I just wanted to give a brief explanation of how this reading works. I use a few oracle decks from a set called, Seasons of the Witch, to determine the gift/ability. Then I draw from a Tarot deck to see how you could best use that gift to benefit yourself, or those around you.

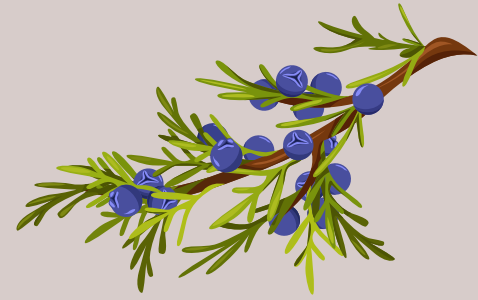

Disclaimer: Some gifts will be mundane, but those are just as special!!!

Insert specialized message about your reading with special pic here*

Gift # 1

Summer berries take time to mature and be ready for harvest. The card mentions how picking them too early can result in bitter fruit.

The five of wands is a card of conflict, and what we will do to come out victorious.

The combination of these cards tells me one of your gifts is the ability to recognize when the time is, or isn't, right to execute plans. These plans vary from when to buy a house, when to speak up to a coworker, when to invest your time or energy into something, the list goes on. I also see that you know when to be sweet and when to be sour.

*sour patch kids are my fav candy btw lol

Now that could be misused to manipulate others as well, in knowing when to sweeten someone up, or when to use negative emotions, to get the results you want.

2 Gift # 2

Maple tree is a card of good luck and positive, dramatic changes.

Surprisingly enough, I was watching a documentary on plants last night, and the Maple tree was on it. Did you know the sap in maple trees is the nutrients the tree has stored up to grow its leaves? When a woodpecker creates a big enough hole and the sap can no longer flow up, the leaves will stop growing until other forest animals distract the woodpecker long enough the tree can heal. The whole process kind of blew my mind. It isn't like the other animals know they are helping the tree, they are just competition for the woodpecker, so he fights them off rather than eating the tree.

*I decided in that moment it was fight on sight for woodpeckers by the way*

Mixed with the King of Swords, who is a very logical and strategic leader, this tells me you have a gift of knowing when to place distractions that can change the tides for yourself, and those around you. You may be like the forest animals, unaware of the positive impacts you are making, but have no doubt, you make them.

I realized in typing this page that I may be a nerd lol

Gift # 3

Peppers mentions 2 things - the first being how peppers are a great tool in protection spells. The second thing it mentions is that you may be feeling the heat as you place boundaries and learn the power of “no.” Mixed with the Magician this tells me 3 things - you have a natural talent for making protection spells. You are a natural shield, meaning you place protective barriers over yourself without even realizing it (kind of reminds me of Bella’s power in Twilight if you read/watched that. If you haven’t though, she could basically put a shield up over herself and others so people could not hurt them or use their powers against them or use powers on them at all for that matter.)

The last thing it tells me is you have the ability to speak things into existence a little easier than the rest of us. I’m not sure what all you know about manifestation and casting, and I apologize if I am telling you things you already know, but just like the bible mentions “he spoke” the world into creation, we speak things into creation too. All of us can do it, but it is likely your throat and crown chakra are more in sync than the normal person, so you can do it easier.

*Disclaimer: You can speak negative things into existence too, I would not speak negatively or curse yourself with your words.

Gift # 4

When I laid these cards down, I actually said profanities out loud because I was so shocked at how clear this answer was.

When I laid the veil, I was like oh they are a veil worker of some kind, then I laid the 4 of swords and knight of cups and was like woah they are a medium. I have only met 2 true mediums in my whole time of doing this, and you are one of them.

So your specific set of skills may not be in seeing spirits with your eyes, you may not even hear them clearly, but what you can do is fully tap into their emotions and relay how they are feeling, what they felt at the time of passing, etc. The knight of cups is our messenger of emotions, so basically whatever emotion they want to communicate, you can embody it and relay it.

I'm not sure if you have had experience with this, or not. If you ever find yourself overwhelmed with an emotion that makes no sense to feel, it is likely a spirit. My intuition is telling me that when this happens if you don't already have a method in place, try journaling and just let yourself write. You could be a channeled writer, which is basically what I am doing right now, allowing spirit to speak through me with writing.

In Conclusion:

You have some really amazing talents! The ability to protect yourself is absolutely amazing, as is the ability to know when to execute, or not execute plans. I could have saved myself so much time with that one lol. A lot of your gifts seem to be more defensive, which makes me wonder what your soul went through in prior lives, or expected to happen this go round, to feel the need to place so much protection over this incarnation.

Lastly, the medium gift can be a blessing and curse. You have the ability to help people communicate through the veil which is so beautiful. However, it can be an overwhelming responsibility, and overstimulating at times. That could be the reason for all the protection. If you are not familiar with this gift, I would find a TRUE medium on tiktok or facebook, and learn from them. I am not skilled in this area, while I can do readings and help you with this gift, you would undoubtedly benefit learning from someone with experience. I don't mean you have to pay them to teach you or anything, just to be clear, I just mean watch their content and learn that way.

Hope you enjoyed,
Chelsea -FaintNoise

