

Spirit Guide Message

name - date

Card 1 Message from Your Spirit Guides: This card represents the primary message or guidance your spirit guides want to convey to you at this moment. It could be advice, reassurance, a warning, or encouragement.

The Hierophant is a card of many faces. In some aspects it hints on tradition. It mentions the importance of finding something greater than yourself. Something that you will bend your will to and become a part of. It also touches on the ability to teach and be taught.

Given the position, this would be a call to either seek out a mentor or take your role as teacher more seriously. There could be skills you need a mentor to perfect. Or there could be a community that really needs your influence. Only you know which call is right for you, but I will touch on this again at the end of the reading.

Card 2

Current Energies: This card reflects the energies surrounding you right now. It may indicate opportunities, challenges, or themes that are prevalent in your life at this time.

When reversed, this card points to a lack of teamwork or support in your work environment. This is the energy of a crew under poor leadership, with people not being recognized for their contributions. It could also be the energy of people working on a collaborative project, but not really honoring the collaborative efforts.

You may feel unsupported, unseen, or like you don't have the help needed to succeed right now. When these energies are prevalent in our lives it is vital to ask ourselves how we can collaborate correctly. Are we perhaps not open to the help available, or do we need to find an environment that does?

Card 3

Key Focus: This card provides insight into what you should focus on or prioritize in your life at this moment. It could relate to personal growth, relationships, career, or any other aspect of your life that needs attention.

This is an interesting card for this position, as this is the area of your life that needs your attention, and this card is about nurturing your physical environment. Given the nature of the cards prior, I believe this is about your home or career.

Answer this question honestly:

What outlook and attitude do you approach your home (or job) with?

- What can this do for me? - Being inconvenienced and annoyed frequently
- What can I do for this? - Wondering how you can contribute to this to make it serve everyone better?

Whichever outlook you have requires balance.

In Conclusion

Tarot has a way of pointing out our blind spots and I believe that is what's happening here. There is an obvious theme of finding where you fit in, learning to work with those around you, and stepping up as a leader in that position.

Since this is a collective reading for some of you that may mean stepping into your role in your household, while it will be a career for others. To find balance between doing and teaching.

The goal is to teach the next generation how to take over, but we also have to let them. I understand stuff is rough, but there is no better leader than you to fix the kinks. You got this.
